The Blacksmith's Sleeves.

An aged woman was standing before a beautiful picture of a blacksmith in a local department store. The picture was a remarkable painting and had evoked so much praise that hundreds of visitors thronged around it. The figure was that of a village blacksmith standing at his forge, which was blazing with a light that illuminated the whole room. The woman came to the whole room. The woman came to the canvas with several younger women, apparently her children. All stood for cloth-bound copy. Address as above. with rapt attention before the work of art, contemplating the light effects and the beautiful shadows. One of the younger women asked of the elderly one what she thought of the picture. "Well, it's all right but the sleeves," she replied. "I lived in the country a long time, and I know something that the painter with all his knowin' didn't know. That blacksmith's sleeves are rolled out. Now, they don't wear them that way. A blacksmith always turns won't catch."-Indianapolis News.

A Friend In Need. Immediately after the earthquake in California in 1906 relief stations were established in San Francisco and Oakland. Supplies poured in from neighboring ranches, other towns and other states, but almost all that was sent homeless wanderers were in immediate need of food. The volunteer cooks did oceans of tea, but it was impossible to cook rapidly enough to supply all comers. Late one afternoon when the cooked food supply was running low and a long line of hungry persons still waited to be fed a wagon halted before one of these stations, and a bluff old ranchman addressed the lady in charge. "Say," said he, "I've brought you 300 dozen of the best eggs in the state, but since S o'clock this morning."

Earthquake Pranks. Hindustan has had many important geological changes effected by earthlently shaken, the earth opening in many places and throwing up water and mud of sulphurous smell. Then sixty square miles of coast suddenly and permanently subsided, one of the Mug mountains entirely disappeared, summit remained. At the same time a corresponding rise of ground took place at Ramree, an island farther along the coast. Again, at Cutch, in 1819 the fort and village of Sindree were submerged, and about five miles distant a long elevated mound was raised, measuring some fifty miles by sixteen in places, out of what had been a perfectly level plain.

Two Definitions.

In illustrating a point a lecturer told of some woman who spoke of her worse half as "a model husband." "Yes," commented an old Irishman who knew the husband better than she did, "he is all of that. But look at the dictionary and see what a 'model' means. It is defined as a 'miniature imitation of the real thing." The lecturer also told of the same Irishman's definition of the world repartee. Said he, "It is the saying tight off of what you think of the next day."

The Contingent Fee. The following pointed note was written by Daniel Webster in answer to a request that he take a certain case for a contingent fee. "I do not desire em ployment in professional matters, although I do sometimes engage in them But I never engage on contingencies merely, for that would make me a mere party to a lawsuit."
